TIM PROFFITT

I have over six years of working experience in applying interaction design and usability principles to the development of web-based applications. My unique contribution has always been the application of user-centric design principles to the problem solving process.

KEY ROLES Sr. Ux Consultant, Front End Web Developer, User Interface Designer

TECHNICAL SKILLS Angular, Backbone, Knockout, SASS, Compass, Ruby on Rails, Jekyll

WORK EXPERIENCE

Improving Enterprises, Senior UX Consultant, December 2012 to Present
Provide consulting services relating to Information Architecture, Visual Design and Front-End Development of web-based applications. Clients include:

Verizon
Develop front-end assets for Angular.js SPA intended to unify two similar products under a single user interface
UX design guidance to stakeholders and development team

The Loomis Agency
Modernize and redesign the agency's online presence
Collaborate with a visual designer to make sure the agency's brand is represented
Full stack development using Ruby on Rails, RefineryCMS, and Backbone js
Manage backlog, deadlines, budget, and training to end users of CMS

ADT
UX guidance to simplify complex interactions and customer facing data visualizations
Provide interactive prototypes to model new functionality for stakeholders
Implement designs with Knockout.js and Coffeescript

Schneider Electric Inc., UI Designer/ Front End Developer, January 2004 to 2012
Responsible for front-end architecture, design, and implementation of engineering applications. Projects include:

UNT Smart Energy Dashboard
Created a dashboard consisting of of data visualizations highlighting the University's energy savings over time. Django and Backbone.js

Engineering Analytics Tool
Developed a web-based tool to help energy engineers analyze the performance of their energy management projects. Django and Backbone.js

Project Estimating Tool
Developed a web-based tool used by sales engineers to group together individual energy management services into service packages specific to a customer's needs. Django and Backbone.js

WORK EXPERIENCE
(cont'd)

Conducted a complete redesign of public facing HMI graphic package.

Lead a small internal team in creating graphics pages for custom building automation software and integration of controls networks with existing customer LAN.

EDUCATION

University of North Texas, 2000 – 2003
B.S., Business Computer Information Systems

PROFESSIONAL REFERENCES

"Tim is a multi-talented difference-maker that can think both creatively and technically, which is a very exceptional and rare characteristic to have. He tackles every challenge with professionalism and can always be counted on to meet and exceed deadlines. His level of patience and dedication are both impressive and inspiring. Plus, his die-hard love for Thai food makes him a winner in my book."

-Tina Tackett, Executive Creative Director
The Loomis Agency